

Hello All:

We will begin calling you yet this morning to begin our testing for Primary Election Night. Below is the link that you will be using for the testing. Let me stress that we will be working in a testing environment. Please do not print anything from this system to avoid any confusion.

The real results will be keyed into a secure, live system on election night. I will send you a new link on Monday. Today we mailed you your username and password for election night; we will also provide it over the phone. It will come in a manila envelope marked "Election Materials Enclosed". It will have a neon sticker that says, "KEEP!! YOUR COUNTY PASSWORD TO FILE ELECTION NIGHT: AUGUST 8, 2006".

Today we will be logging into a training site and some additional steps will be required. I expect the training to take no more than 15 minutes. We hope to have everyone called by the end of business tomorrow. Please save this email for our training, as the link below is needed. The training site link is temporary and will be removed as soon as all of the counties have been trained. Please have your instructions handy.

Please do not click the link below until you are called.
